According to Circular 11, the Bank is not required to make general allowance for term deposits at and loans to other credit institutions.

4. Held-for-trading securities and investment securities

a) Classification

Held-for-trading securities are securities which are acquired for trading or reselling purpose within one year in order to gain from price movements and not to take control of the investees.

Investment securities include available-for-sale investment securities and held-to-maturity investment securities. Available-for-sale investment securities are debt securities which may be held for an indefinite period and sold whenever it is evaluated beneficial. Held-to-maturity investment securities are securities acquired to earn interest income and the Bank has the intention and ability to hold until maturity. Securities classified as held-to-maturity are neither sold prior to maturity date or nor reclassified into held-for-trading and available-for-sale.

The Bank classifies investment securities at the date of acquisition as available-for-sale investment securities and held-to-maturity investment securities. According to Official Letter No. 2601/NHNN-TCKT dated 14 April 2009 of the SBV, the Bank is allowed to reclassify investment securities for a maximum of one time after initial recognition at the date of acquisition.

b) Recognition

The Bank recognises held-for-trading securities and investment securities on the date that the Bank becomes a party under purchase contracts for these securities (trade date accounting).

c) Measurement

Debt securities

For debt held-for-trading securities, the Bank initially records at cost less allowance for diminution in value (if any).

For debt investment securities, the Bank initially records at cost including transaction costs and other directly attributable costs. They are subsequently measured at amortised cost (affected by premium/discount amortisation) less allowance for investment securities, including allowance for diminution in value of securities and allowance for credit losses of investment securities which are unlisted corporate bonds. Premium and discounts arising from purchases of debt securities are amortised on a straight-line basis over the period from acquisition date to maturity date.

Allowance for diminution in value of investment securities is determined based on actual market prices. For listed debt securities issued by other local credit institutions and local economic entities, the actual bond price on the market is the latest trading price at the Stock Exchanges within 10 days to the end of reporting period. If there is no transaction within 10 days to the end of reporting period, the Bank will not make allowance for diminution in value of these investments.

For debt securities of enterprises that is unlisted corporate bonds, the Bank provides allowance for credit risk of such securities in accordance with the accounting policy as described in Note IV.7.

An allowance for securities mentioned above is reversed if their price or their recoverable value subsequently increases after the allowance was recognised. The allowance is reversed only to the extent that the securities' carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that has been determined if no allowance had been recognised.

Interest income after acquisition of trading debt securities is recognised in the separate statement of income upon receipt (cash basis).

Interest income after acquisition of investment debt securities is recognised in the separate statement of income on an accrual basis, except for interest from unlisted corporate bonds classified from Group 2 to Group 5 as described in Note IV.7 which are recorded upon receipt (cash basis). The accumulated interest income before acquisition date is recognised as a decrease in cost upon received.

d) De-recognition

The Bank derecognises held-for-trading securities and investment securities when the contractual rights to the cash flows from these securities expired or when the significant risks and rewards of ownership of these securities have been transferred.

5. Long-term investments

a) Investments in subsidiaries

Subsidiaries are entities controlled by the Bank. Control exists when the Bank has the power to govern the financial and operating policies of an entity to obtain benefits from its activities. When assessing control, it is essential to take into account the exercisability of potential voting rights.

For the purpose of these separate interim financial statements, investments in subsidiaries are stated at cost less allowance for diminution in value of investments. Distributions from the accumulated profits of the subsidiaries arising subsequent to the date of acquisition are recognised in the separate interim statement of income. An allowance is made for diminution in investment value if the investee has suffered a loss which may cause the Bank to lose its invested capital, unless there is evidence that the value of the investment has not been diminished. The allowance is reversed if the investee subsequently made a profit that offsets the previous loss for which the allowance had been made. An allowance is reversed only to the extent that the investment's carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been determined if no allowance had been recognized.

b) Other long-term investments

Other long-term investments are investments in the equity of other companies without having control or significant influence. These long-term investments are initially recognised at cost at the date of acquisition, and subsequently stated at cost less allowance for diminution in the value of investments.

c) Allowance for diminution in value of long-term investments

Allowance for diminution in value of other long-term investments is made when the invested economic entities suffer losses causing impairment to the investment by the Bank, except when there is evidence of non-impairment. Allowance for diminution in value is determined as the total actual contributed capital of parties to the investee less (-) the actual owner's equity multiplied (x) by the Bank's ownership percentage in the investee.

An allowance is reversed if the recoverable amounts are subsequently increased after the allowance was recognised. The allowance is reversed only to the extent that the investment's carrying amount does not exceed the carrying amount that has been determined if no allowance had been recognised.

6. Loans and advances to customers

Loans and advances to customers are stated at the amount of the principal outstanding less allowance for loans and advances to customers.

Short-term loans are those with maturity term of up to 1 year from the loan disbursement date. Medium-term loans are those with maturity term of more than 1 year to 5 years from the loan disbursement date. Long-term loans are those with maturity term of more than 5 years from the loan disbursement date.

The Bank derecognises loans when the contractual rights to the cash flows from these loans expire or when substantially all the risks and rewards of ownership of these loans have been transferred.

Differences upon revaluation at the end of each month are recognised as "Foreign exchange differences” on the separate interim statements of financial position and are fully transferred to the separate interim statement of income at the end of the annual accounting period. Differences between the amounts in VND of the foreign currency amounts which are committed to buy/sell at forward rate and spot rate are recognised in the separate statement of income on a straight-line basis over the term of the contracts.

The currency swap contracts are transactions between two parties, committing to perform a transaction consisting of a purchase transaction and a sale transaction of the same amount of one foreign currency to another with the exchange rate of the two transactions determined at the time of the transaction and the settlement date of the two transactions are different. A currency swap may consist of two spot transactions, two forward transactions or one spot transaction and one forward transaction. Premiums/discounts arising from the difference of exchange rates between the two transactions will be recognized at the settlement date of the first transaction of the contract as an asset item if positive or a liability if negative in the separate interim statement of financial position. This difference is amortised to the separate statement of income on a straight-line basis over the term of the swap contracts.

In situations where it can be clearly demonstrated that the expenditure has resulted in an increase in the future economic benefits expected to be obtained from the use of tangible fixed assets beyond its originally assessed standard of performance, the expenditure is capitalised as an additional cost of tangible fixed assets.
